A successful showcase requires mastery of three core operational elements

1

Preparation

Files, Roles & Backups

Ensuring your shared drive is finalized and every group member knows their exact responsibility.

2

Punctuality

Arrival & Timing

Navigating a busy campus to meet strict registration and presentation deadlines.

3

Professionalism

Dress Code & Etiquette

Presenting yourself and responding to others in a manner befitting an official academic event.

CUHK Information Day crowds require careful transit planning

The Constraint: The campus will be exceptionally busy. Do not wait until the last minute to travel to Lee Shau Kee Building.

The Deadline: 1:00 PM is the official start time for guests. 12:45 PM is the absolute deadline for student arrival.

Step 1
Take official attendance.

Step 2
Receive and visibly apply your designated name label.

Step 3
Proceed immediately to your directed seating area.

Clear role delegation ensures seamless group execution

The Coordinator

Verifies all group members have arrived and contacts Prof. Yau as early as possible regarding any emergencies or severe delays.

The Tech Lead

Manages the shared-drive folder, ensuring all files are uploaded and the absolute latest version is clearly identifiable.

The Backup

Carries physical emergency files (USB drive or laptop) in case of critical cloud failure.

The Understudy

Knows exactly how the presentation will adapt and continue if a specific group member is unexpectedly absent.

The shared drive acts as the single source of truth for the event

The Protocol & Required Contents	Version Control & Verification
Everything shown or presented must be uploaded to your designated group folder. No email attachments.	Keep the folder highly organized. Clearly identify the final version and avoid ambiguous names (e.g., no final_final or latest_final_2).
PowerPoint slides, PDF backups (must match current slides), videos, audio, images, spreadsheets, data files, simulation results, scripts, and supplementary materials.	Do media files play correctly? Does the PDF match the PPT? Are there any files left behind on a personal laptop?

Note: Representatives from EDB, HKAGE, and Prof. Yau will review these files.

Nine groups will present across two structured sessions

Session 1	The Break	Session 2
Five groups present.	A brief intermission. Remain nearby, keep corridors clear, return before the announced time.	The remaining four groups present.

Operational Rules

- The detailed presentation order will be released separately.
- Groups presenting later must not leave the venue; remain seated and attentive.
- The next-up group must prepare quietly while the current group presents.

Gemini Notebook

Professional respect is expected from all participants

When in the Audience

- Keep phones on silent.
- Remain quiet and attentive; do not rehearse aloud or walk around unnecessarily.
- Do not block the view of guests or adjudicators.
- Applaud appropriately. Never laugh at mistakes, make dismissive comments, or criicize another group publicly.

Adjudicator Protocol

- Do not approach adjudicators privately during breaks or after the event.
- Do not attempt to explain your project again, ask about rankings, challenge their comments, or influence the results.

Celebrating the collective work of all nine groups

Step 1:
Wait seated until your group is called.

Step 2:
Come forward promptly with all group members.

Step 3:
Receive the certificate politely and face the designated camera.

Step 4:
Return to your seat efficiently for the next group.

Every participant receives a certificate.

Congratulate the winning teams respectfully, regardless of your group's result.

Do not leave the venue after receiving your certificate.

Two mandatory final steps before the showcase concludes

Individual Requirement

Student Feedback Form

1. Every single student must complete their own form via the provided QR code or link.
2. Group members cannot submit on your behalf.
3. You may not leave until staff have confirmed your submission is processed.

Collective Requirement

Official Group Photo

1. A large-scale photograph involving all students, teachers, guests, and parents.
2. Keep your name label on and attire neat. Follow the photographer's positioning instructions.
3. Personal photography must not delay this official process. Nobody leaves early.

Valuable event records and feedback will be made available

The Post-Showcase Ecosystem

The value of the showcase extends beyond the day itself.

Official Photographs

High-quality images of presentations, certificate awards, and the final group photo will be uploaded to the shared drive.

Adjudicator Scripts

The respective feedback scripts from the judging panel will be made available in your group folders. Review this feedback to understand your performance and support your future development as risk managers and actuaries.
